SOUNDS classical

A new WFMT series with LaRob K. Rafael and Kristina Lynn

8 PM | FRIDAYS beginning December 9

December 2022

ALSO INSIDE

On WTTW, celebrate the holidays with specials from Dame Mary Berry, holiday concerts from DePaul University and Wheaton College, and an all-new Christmas program featuring the Tabernacle Choir and Orchestra.

From the President & CEO

Dear Member,

This month, we're excited to bring you a new Friday night series on WFMT - Sounds Classical. I hope you will listen to this innovative and immersive program hosted by WFMT's Kristina Lynn and LaRob K. Rafael, who will explore the sounds we know - and maybe don't know - to discover along with listeners how the ever-changing and ever-expanding world around us can influence modern-day experiences with classical music. On page 4, you'll find an interview with LaRob and Kristina who share more about their plans for this new radio program.

Throughout the month, we'll be celebrating the holidays on WTTW and WFMT. On WTTW, get inspired with ideas for seasonal cooking during an all-day chef's marathon and, in Mary Berry's Ultimate Christmas, you'll find the only guide you'll ever need for prepping, shopping, and making a memorable meal Mary Berry-style. And don't miss Anthony Williams' Urban Nutcracker, which retells this treasured story blending the rhythms of Duke Ellington with the classical music of Tchaikovsky and showcasing tap, hip hop, flamenco, and jazz.

On WFMT, holiday music abounds. Listen for WFMT Presents: A Mexican Christmas, featuring music from the Newberry Consort and EnsAmble Ad-Hoc; The Ballad of the Brown King and Other Music for Christmas by Black Composers, curated and hosted by Dr. Louise Toppin; and A Polish Christmas, curated by Lucyna Migala, featuring recordings by Chicago's Lira Ensemble. And we'll bring you annual favorites including A Festival of Nine Lessons and Carols from King's College, the St. Olaf Christmas Festival, and the Music of the Baroque Holiday Brass and Choral Concert. On wfmt.com, we'll share a playlist of eight musical works to celebrate Hanukkah.

On behalf of all of us at WTTW and WFMT, I wish you and your family a very happy holiday season and a healthy and prosperous New Year.

Sincerely,

Sandra Cordova Micek
President & CEO

Sounds Classical

Guide: Talk about the title Sounds Classical. What does that phrase mean to you?

LaRob K. Rafael: I think people listen to WFMT expecting to hear Bach and Beethoven, Schumann and Schubert, Brahms and Wagner. Sounds Classical is a play on that idea. You'll hear those classical sounds, but what may be different is that Kristina and I are trying to take a more conversational approach. You'll hear Brahms and Schubert, but you'll hear the discussions Kristina and I have around the pieces. What do they mean to us? How have we been inspired by them? And also, you might not hear as much Brahms and Beethoven and Schubert. Kristina and I will try to present composers that are brand new and relevant to our lives as young classical music lovers. We'll try to engage longtime WFMT audiences while inviting a newer audience to come and join the conversation about classical music.

Kristina Lynn: Classical music is often European-focused, Western music-focused. While we were discussing the first episode, we wanted to include other cultures and communities and points of view. But it's also hard to define what classical music is, specifically.

LaRob: The goal of what we are presenting is not to say that anything and everything is classical music. I think what we are trying to say is that any and everything can influence classical music.

A New Weekly Series from WFMT Offers Fresh Perspectives on Classical Music Sounds

by KEEGAN MORRIS

This month, WFMT will premiere Sounds Classical – a new Friday evening series. In this innovative and immersive radio program, hosts Kristina Lynn and LaRob K. Rafael will present a range of musical works inclusive of well-known composers and new discoveries alike. The program will feature surprising and personal takes, lean-in interviews, and exciting new works composed and performed, in many cases, by local artists. Along the way, Kristina and LaRob will share lively and insightful commentary, providing context for the listener that makes this beautiful and dynamic art form fresh and accessible. We sat down with them to learn more.

Sounds Classical

Fridays
at 8:00 pm
beginning
December 9

Of course, there are very culturally specific musical sounds from hip-hop to Carnatic singing. Obviously, that's not the same thing as Mozart. But it would be unwise for the person who appreciates the history of Mozart to exclude musical ideas from around the world when we consider how classical music comes to be.

Guide: How does this perspective shape the way you are choosing to host and present music?

Kristina: There's this idea that you must be an expert to speak on classical music. I'm learning to put that idea aside – that I don't need to know everything in order to enjoy and speak on it and share it with people.

LaRob: When people listen to classical music, they're not thinking: "Oh, this modulation to the fifth," or whatever. When you hear music, your first reaction to it comes from how it makes you feel. I think that's what Kristina and I do well on the show. Our priority and expertise come mostly from how we feel about it. We want to present music in this conversational way. It can be a little challenging to fit it all within an hour and talk effectively about it.

Guide: Take us through the first few episodes.

Kristina: In our premiere episode, we'll explore the idea: "What does sound classical?" We'll discuss why specific composers may come to mind and invite other sounds into the genre, into the conversation about classical music.

LaRob: We will explore ideas of what classical music sounds like, what people think classical music is. And how people have been influenced to create classical music based on their experiences in other areas of their lives.

Kristina: In subsequent weeks, we'll talk about our first experiences in classical music and hear about others' introductions to it. We're just talking about this music and how it made us feel the first time we listened to it. The impact it had on us.

LaRob: We also explore our own instruments. Kristina is a fabulous trumpet player who studied trumpet performance. [Chuckling] I'm an okay singer.

Kristina: No! [Laughing]

LaRob: We will share what we love about our respective instruments. I learn a bit about the intricacies of trumpet and share with Kristina something interesting about the voice.

Kristina: A little show and tell. It ties back in with the theme of the expert versus the newcomer. It has been a long journey of studying music and working in music. So, revisiting those first memories is special. You can expect to hear familiar tunes and composers, and we also want to highlight newer and underrepresented composers and performers. And we branch out from classical music a bit, too. You may hear some jazz, musical theater, and blues. And that's just in the first couple of episodes.

Guide: What excites you most about this new show?

LaRob: I'm looking forward to talking about how fun classical music can be. One of the things I love about doing this show is that we listen to the music and our reactions just kind of...happen. If you're in a concert hall, you've got to wait until the end of an entire piece to clap. But sitting in the studio with Kristina, listening to it, you're getting the head nods, the claps, sometimes singing along.

Kristina: It's just something you don't often hear in classical settings. The music ends and we're laughing. The music ends and we're singing. If you're hearing a symphony in a concert hall, maybe you're thinking, "This is 55 minutes long, how am I going to get through this?" But when you actually spend time with it, you find that there is a story being told. Even if a piece is from centuries ago, you can relate to it just as you would relate to Taylor Swift's new album.

LaRob: This show is a "come as you are" series, whether you're an expert in classical music or you've never heard a classical piece before. We welcome you to the show and to take part in what Kristina and I are experiencing in real time.

Kristina: Speaking to all these types of people has been a challenge, but it's been a really fun one. Listeners will hear that we're really enjoying what we're doing, and we hope they'll like it, too.

Sounds Classical premieres on Friday, December 9 at 8:00 pm on 98.7WFMT and streams on wfmt.com and the WFMT app. This interview has been edited for length and clarity.

- 11:04 African Americans: Many Rivers to Cross – The Age of Slavery (1800-1860) (Part 2 of 6) This episode illustrates how Black lives changed dramatically in the aftermath of the American Revolution.

AFTERNOON

- 12:11 African Americans: Many Rivers to Cross – Into the Fire (1861-1896) (Part 3 of 6) This episode examines the Civil War and the end of slavery, and Reconstruction's thrilling but tragically brief "moment in the sun."

- 1:18 African Americans: Many Rivers to Cross – Making a Way Out of No Way (1897-1940) (Part 4 of 6) Learn about the Jim Crow era, when African Americans struggled to build their own worlds within the harsh, narrow confines of segregation.
- 2:37 African Americans: Many Rivers to Cross – Rise! (1940-1968) (Part 5 of 6) This episode examines the long road to civil rights, when the deep contradictions in American society finally became unsustainable.
- 3:55 African Americans: Many Rivers to Cross – A More Perfect Union (1968-2013) (Part 6 of 6) After 1968, African Americans set out to build a future on the foundation of the civil rights movement's victories, but a growing class disparity threatened to split the Black community in two.
- 5:30 To be announced

EVENING

- 7:00 All Creatures Great and Small Season 2 on Masterpiece: Where the Heart is (Part 1 of 7) James and Helen test the waters of their relationship as James ponders a new job prospect. Tristan dives into his vet practice a bit too confidently.
- 8:00 All Creatures Great and Small Season 2 on Masterpiece: Semper Progrediens (Part 2 of 7) Hopeful for a closer relationship with Helen, James invites her to the gala spring dance. Siegfried also tries his luck with romance.
- 9:00 All Creatures Great and Small Season 2 on Masterpiece: We Can But Hope (Part 3 of 7) Medical advice clashes with farming wisdom as James and Helen have their first quarrel. Mrs. Pumphrey's dog gets Tristan in trouble.

WFMT Presents: Music of the Baroque

The October concert Baroque Heroes featured a program that spanned both chronological extremes of the Baroque era with one excursion into the Classical period – C.P.E. Bach's virtuosic Cello Concerto in A major. The soloist was MOB's principal cellist Paul Dwyer. A stylistic chameleon, Dwyer is a founding member of two period instrument ensembles, Diderot String Quartet and ACRONYM, while also serving as assistant principal of Lyric Opera Orchestra and pursuing an MBA at U of C's Booth School of Business.

Join the largest dementia prevention study.

The PREVENTABLE research study will help us learn if taking a statin could help older adults live well for longer by preventing dementia, disability, or heart disease.

WHY JOIN PREVENTABLE?

By taking part in PREVENTABLE, you are taking an active role in your own healthcare and helping to generate evidence on healthy aging that may help future generations. You may also benefit from additional memory and physical function monitoring.

WHO CAN PARTICIPATE IN PREVENTABLE?

You may be a good fit for the study if you:

- Are age 75 years or older
- Are not taking a statin
- Have not been diagnosed with dementia, heart disease (heart attack or stroke), or a significant disability that limits your basic everyday activities

WFMT Presents: Celebrating 50 Years of Canadian Brass

Friends Chuck Daellenbach and Gene Watts first came together in 1970 to form the quintet Canadian Brass. Daellenbach, the group's tubist and last remaining original member, reminisces about the ensemble's storied career now spanning 50 years with a discography of over 130 albums and the distinction of being the world's most famous brass group. Hosted by Jan Weller.

WFMT Presents: A Mexican Christmas

The Newberry Consort's former co-artistic directors Ellen Hargis and David Douglass left a healthy organization to their successor Liza Malamut, especially with the grand slam success of their annual Mexican Christmas concert first produced in 2018. Hear an annotated version of this joyful program hosted by Hargis and Francy Acosta, co-director of EnsAmble Ad-Hoc, specialists in pre-classical Spanish repertoire.
