MASTERPIECE
MISS SCARLET
& THE DUKE

November 2022

SUNDAYS | 7 PM

with a "Secrets Revealed" special on November 27

ALSO INSIDE

On WFMT, listen for early music ensemble Black Tulip, cellist Alexander Hersh and pianist Victor Santiago Asuncion, and the Orion Ensemble with violist Stephen Boe on Live from WFMT.

From the President & CEO

Dear Member,

This fall, we hope you have been enjoying our Sunday evening triple bill of female-led British crime dramas featuring Lesley Manville as inquisitive book editor Susan Ryeland on Magpie Murders; Nicola Walker as the wry and charming police squad chief Annika; and Kate Phillips as a fearless Victorian private eye in the second season of Miss Scarlet and the Duke. We have an interview with Phillips for you on page 4.

We're celebrating Native American Heritage Month with a new American Masters profile of indigenous folk singer Buffy Sainte-Marie; The Warrior Tradition, about Native Americans' experiences in the military; and the Native America series. On wttw.com, try a recipe from an indigenous chef trying to popularize Native American cuisine and discover Chicago locales where traces of Native peoples still exist. And WTTW News and Chicago Tonight will provide extensive coverage of the midterm elections to help voters make informed choices when they head to the polls.

On WFMT, listen for conversations with Native American composer Raven Chacon on winning the Pulitzer Prize for Music, Joffrey Ballet artistic director Ashley Wheater on the company's collaboration with CSO, and composer Jessie Montgomery on curating the CSO MusicNOW series. And Live from WFMT continues this month with early music ensemble Black Tulip, cellist Alexander Hersh and pianist Victor Santiago Asuncion, and the Orion Ensemble with violist Stephen Boe. On wfmt.com, discover five must-listen Studs Terkel conversations about Native American history, education, and literature; and learn about the musical instruments played by indigenous tribes in the Midwest.

On behalf of all of us at WTTW and WFMT in this month of Thanksgiving, I am grateful for your continued support.

Sincerely,

Sandra Cordova Micek
President & CEO

Q&A

Miss Scarlet and the Duke

star K A T E P H I L L I P S

Miss Scarlet and the Duke

Sundays at 7:00 pm

Not only do we get to continue enjoying season 2 of Miss Scarlet and the Duke this month as it airs Sundays at 7:00 pm on WTTW, but once the season wraps up, there will be two “behind-the-scenes” specials premiering on November 27. Miss Scarlet and the Duke: Secrets Revealed does what its title promises; and immediately following, the intrepid Victorian detective is also featured in Mysterious Women of Masterpiece Mystery.

Actor Kate Phillips, who plays Eliza Scarlet, shares some thoughts about her role, the series, and the state of Eliza’s evolving relationship with the Duke.

Can you give us a brief recap of where the story ended in series 1?

Kate Phillips: In the first series, Eliza’s aim is to establish herself as a private detective. This is a profession never before attempted by a woman, and she questions whether she can do it. By the end of the series, she believes she has what it takes – it’s clear to her that she knows her craft and has some great instincts. With regard to her relationship with the Duke, it’s ambiguous but they clearly have an amazing connection. As a viewer, you’re desperately rooting for them to find the romance.

There’s a dedicated fan base called the Scarleteers, which is lovely to see. How did you find the reaction after the first series?

Phillips: You never know how a show is going to be received when you’re filming, so it only brings you joy when you discover that there’s a collective of people who love it as much as you do. After it aired in the U.S., we got a real sense that people really enjoyed it. Our amazing sound mixer has some friends in North America, and when we were filming the second series, he relayed a story about how excited they got over a Zoom call when he revealed which show he was working on. I think his wife was working on the film Knives Out at the time, but their excitement about Miss Scarlet and the Duke was ten times bigger in comparison!

What first attracted you to the role?

Phillips: The writing. You could tell from the first few pages that the show had a specific tone to it - it was so warm and bouncy. That was so true of the role, too. Eliza has an awesome mix of feistiness and naïveté that has been so fun to play. I find there is a real pace and rhythm to many of the scenes, and at the end there's often a cute little button - I love having that as an actor.

What's the relationship between Eliza and William like in this series?

Phillips: I feel there are many things that are left unsaid between them in this series. This year, the dynamic between them feels a lot more knowing, and a lot more painful. The fans will also be happy to hear there is as much sparring and comedy as ever.

Eliza reopens one of William's cases in the first episode. How does this affect their relationship?

Phillips: I think that storyline sets the tone for the whole series. It's a clever bit of writing, because it presents the major obstacle in their way, stopping them from being together. Eliza is still paving her way as a private detective and as much as she wants him in her life, her work is still at the forefront. She's still in the process of proving herself to the world and she won't let anything get in the way of that. Even the Duke. She's going to put her work before their relationship, and the question remains as to whether their bond can sustain that.

Can you relate to your character at all?

Phillips: Perhaps in some of her more vulnerable moments. I didn't have an upbringing like Eliza's, but any actor relishes the moments you can dip into the bits of you that feel more complex. Behind all of her bravado there is softness and a loneliness,

Kate Phillips

“It's truly awesome to see a character strive for success and if they stumble, to do it with a bit of smile.”

Stuart Martin

even. It's the feisty and more confident version of Eliza where I feel I get to be someone else. It's in those moments that I get to stride around saying clever things I wouldn't ever think of saying in my own life. It's great.

In what way does Eliza relate to women in the modern day?

Phillips: I think Eliza gives women today the permission to do what they want, especially because she's doing something against all the odds. Hattie (played by Jessie Cave) says something to Eliza that I really like in the first episode of the new series: ‘You know who you are and what you want. Many may not approve, but you simply do not care. I call that freedom indeed’. It's a really nice little phrase, as there is a lot of fear out there about what people think and whether or not you can succeed as a woman. There's something about Eliza that feels really empowering. It's truly awesome to see a character strive for success and if they stumble, to do it with a bit of smile.

Is there anything that you would want to bring back from Victorian times?

Phillips: Well, the first thing I would say is that they can keep their corsets! Actually, a few weeks in, I had stopped wearing my corset. We had some very serious discussions about it. While corsets can be useful for finding the character, it got to the point where I was just uncomfortable. The costumes have a really beautiful structure, and we quickly discovered that you couldn't tell when I wasn't wearing it. It was incredibly liberating.

What is it about Miss Scarlet and the Duke that makes it unique?

Phillips: I think it has all the elements that you love about a period drama, while bringing everything that you thought was sepia or black and white into vivid color, along with a surprising amount of wit and humor.

Chicago Stories: The Real Mad Men of Chicago

You may not have heard of Albert Lasker, Eugene Kolkey, or Tom Burrell, but you most certainly know their creations. They're Chicago's Mad Men - the local executives who created iconic figures like the Marlboro Man, Charlie Tuna, and the Pillsbury Dough Boy. This episode of Chicago Stories explores how the real Mad Men of Chicago became the leaders of the advertising world.

Straight No Chaser: The 25th Anniversary Celebration

Straight No Chaser has come a long way since the professional a cappella collective came into being as a student singing group at Indiana University. A video of their comedic arrangement of "The Twelve Days of Christmas" went viral, and they have never looked back. Celebrate 25 years with the nine members of the group as they belt out songs with style, swagger, and spirit. The special features classic and contemporary songs like "Proud Mary," "Lean on Me," and "Shut Up and Dance."

Víkingur Ólafsson

WFMT Presents: Music and Conversation with Víkingur Ólafsson

The brilliant Icelandic pianist joins host Dennis Moore to discuss his new album. From Afar, a double-album, was inspired by Ólafsson's life-changing meeting with 96-year-old Hungarian composer and pianist György Kurtág in 2021 that sparked memories of music he loved as a child. After the meeting, he wanted to write a thank you note but was unable to find the right words. Instead, a musical map started to form in his head with Kurtág's own music as a compass, resulting in From Afar.

Listening to Singers

Lawrence "Larry" Brownlee is a leading figure in opera, both as a bel canto specialist on the world's top stages, and as a voice for activism and diversity in the industry. Brownlee joins host Oliver Camacho during a benchmark season, having sung his first French Baroque role (Platée) in Paris; having spearheaded Opera Philadelphia's production of Rossini's Otello; and preparing his return to the Met in The Magic Flute. He sings the title role in Rossini's Le Comte Ory at Lyric Opera this month.

Jessie Montgomery

WFMT Presents: CSO MusicNOW with Jessie Montgomery

CSO Mead Composer-in Residence Jessie Montgomery previews the 2022-23 contemporary music series that began last month. A laureate of both the Sphinx Medal of Excellence and the ASCAP Foundation's Leonard Bernstein Award, Montgomery has emerged as one of the most compelling and sought-after voices in new music today: a composer who is "pretty much changing the canon for American orchestras" (New York Times). Hosted by LaRob K. Rafael.

CSO Radio Broadcasts

A program to wish Daniel Barenboim—the Chicago Symphony Orchestra's ninth music director—a very happy and healthy 80th birthday. Hear some of the most iconic recordings with Barenboim on the podium, including music by Richard Wagner, Richard Strauss, and Anton Bruckner. Now based in Berlin, the pianist and conductor has recently announced he is “taking a step back from some of [his] performing activities...for the coming months” after being diagnosed with a “serious neurological condition.”
