He’s back and the talk of the town is the wedding of the Portwenn police officer Joe Penhale and Janice Bone. On wttw.com, learn how the new season of Finding Your Roots uncovers the ancestry of its subjects, and go behind the curtain for the first collaboration between Lyric Opera of Chicago and the Joffrey Ballet on their Orphée et Eurydice.

On 98.7WFMT, wfmt.com/listen, and the WFMT app, the Metropolitan Opera on Saturday afternoons features Verdi’s Otello conducted by Gustavo Dudamel, Cilea’s Adriana Lecouvreur starring Anna Netrebko, Debussy’s enigmatic Pelléas et Mélisande, and a new work by Nico Muhly based on Hitchcock’s film Marnie. Join scientists and local residents as they head underground to investigate the geological cause of the eruption. Along the way, discover how Hawaii’s distinctive volcanoes formed in the first place, and what they tell us about the future of Hawaii.

Independent Lens: The King

Forty years after the death of Elvis Presley, two-time Sundance Grand Jury winner Eugene Jarecki’s new film takes the King’s 1963 Rolls-Royce on a musical road trip across America. From Memphis to New York, Las Vegas, and beyond, the journey traces the rise and fall of Elvis as a metaphor for the country he left behind. In this groundbreaking film, Jarecki paints a visionary portrait of the state of the American Dream and a penetrating look at how we got here. A diverse cast of Americans, both famous and non, join the journey, including Alec Baldwin, Rosieianne Cash, Chuck D, Emmylou Harris, Ethan Hawke, Van Jones, Mike Myers, and Dan Rather, among many others.

Anna Netrebko as Adriana

Io son l’umile ancella – I am the humble servant of art – is a highlight of Francesco Cilea’s opera Adriana Lecouvreur, based remotely on the life of a French actress of the early 18th century. Adriana is currently being portrayed in a new production by tenor Peter Seccala as her lover, the soldier-nobleman Maurizio. The emphasis of this work is strongly on lyrical melody, in a nostalgic and somewhat exotic theatrical-backstage setting. The story is a complex web of love rivalries and mistaken identities, and the ending is not a happy one, but before that, there’s a lot of delicious music to enjoy.

Debussy's Operatic Masterpiece from the Met

The evocative music of Claude Debussy is a perfect fit for the enigmatic Symbolist plot and vague, allusive dialogue of Maurice Maeterlinck’s play Pelléas et Mélisande. The Metropolitan Opera’s commentary points out that the music uses subtle shifts of tone colors and constantly-evolving musical motifs to create a quasi-medieval atmosphere, enhanced by occasional quotations from ancient harmonic modes.

The setting of Pelléas is a mythical kingdom, Allemagne, not pinned down to a particular time period, though sometime in the Middle Ages is suggested— but the costumes shown in photos of the Jonathan Miller production reflect a later era. The lovers are portrayed by tenor Paul Appleby and soprano Isabel Leonard, the part 10, looks at symphonic works from the time of Alexander Scriabin to that of Samuel Barber.

The Metropolitan Opera’s production of Pelléas et Mélisande, conducted by Yannick Nézet-Séguin, is on the podium.

From Novel to Movie to Opera: Marnie at the Met

Marnie is a suspense novel by Winston Graham, of Poldark fame, that was made into a movie by Alfred Hitchcock, and has now been turned into an opera by American composer Nico Muhly. This Metropolitan Opera commission is a co-production of the Met and the English National Opera, which premiered the work in 2017. It will star Isabel Leonard in the title role, Christopher Maltman as Mark, counter-tenor Iestyn Davies as Terry, and Denyce Graves as Marnie’s mother. Marnie’s shifting identities are the focus of the plot; she is an enigma. Set in England in the late 1950s, the work is scored for a cast of 18 soloists, with a super-large orchestra augmented by piano, celesta, piccolo trumpet, and offstage percussion. These forces are all performing under the baton of Robert Spano.

Recovering a Musical Heritage

Currently music director of the Los Angeles Opera and principal conductor of the RAI National Symphony of Turin, Italy, James Conlon has had an international career that has taken him to the Metropolitan Opera, the Paris Opera, the Rotterdam Philharmonic, the city of Cologne, and the Cincinnati May and Ravinia festivals – he was Ravinia’s music director from 2005 to 2015. A constant theme of his career has been the championing of composers silenced, imprisoned, or killed under the Third Reich; for these efforts he’s been recognized by the Anti-Defamation League, Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, and the Zemlinsky Prize. We hope you can join us as Mr. Conlon leads us on an exploration of music from a lost generation – works forgotten by history but remembered by activists to raise awareness of the suppression, imprisonment, or killing of the composers. We will celebrate this special program to celebrate this Heritage: The host, conductor James Conlon, discusses and samples music by composers suppressed, imprisoned, or killed during the Nazi Holocaust. We’re airing the program tonight in honor of the UN’s International Holocaust Remembrance Day. We invite you to join us as Mr. Conlon leads us on this exploration of music from this lost generation.
